Download the software named "m. Q: How to assign command to a series of actions in Vim? I'm new to Vim, and find myself repeating code over and over again when I use Vim. I'm wondering if there's any way to put together a series of actions to get something done, rather than memorizing each specific action. For example, when I want to switch tabs, I usually do the following: Press i to go to tab one Move the cursor to the tab I want to switch to. Press Esc to leave insert mode. Press'to jump to the tab I want to switch to. I'm hoping there's a way to combine these so that I can define one command that does all of that. A: See :help auto-cmd. You could use something like :autocmd buf EnterRead *buf* wincmd p :autocmd buf EnterWrite *buf* wincmd w :autocmd buf WinEnter 2d92ce491b
